Editorial.

This number is edited by Chester H. Payne.

The OUTLOOK extends the heartiest congratulations to the Glee and Banjo Club for the success of the concert given Friday evening. We are pleased to welcome the Club to the front ranks of College organization. That McGill is not behind other colleges in the matter of possessing talent has been clearly demonstrated. Many years ago the Glee Club was one of the most prominent societies at the University. But, unfortunately, a trip of some duration was taken and either through poor management or extravagance a debt of considerable proportion was incurred. The failure of the enterprise was so great that until last year the College authorities looked askance at any attempt to reform. Last year, however, several enterprising students felt that something should be done to encourage and develop the talent which was so manifest. After careful consideration and with permission and encouragement of the Faculty a meeting was held to look into the matter. Such enthusiasm was displayed that organization was found to be advisable and the Club once more was revived.

The Club commenced its work under every difficulty and the success of the year was only achieved by hard work.

With the opening of the present College term the members met at the first opportunity for early organization. Throughout the term both branches, the Glee and the Banjo Clubs, have practiced diligently. It was decided to take a trip, and communications with Vankleek Hill arranged for a concert to be held there in February. This, unfortunately, had to be cancelled and the project was transferred to Richmond and Sherbrooke. It was a large undertaking and it speaks well for the success of the trip by saying that only a very small debt was incurred.

That the students might have a chance to patronize their own organization, the concert of Friday night was held. It is to be regretted that the affair was held so near the examinations, but even that is a poor excuse for the smallness of the College element present. Like nearly all McGill clubs it does not by any means receive its entitled support. However, the concert was an entire success, financially and otherwise, and the Club may feel assured that it will be well supported in future. McGill is by no means behind other colleges in possessing talent and it needs only the efforts of such a club to bring out the fact more strongly. So into the third year of its new career, the McGill Glee and Banjo Club may enter with the assurance of better support and greater successes.

That the project of the Gymnasium Exhibition has not been dropped comes as welcome news. In the following pages the particulars of this may be read. The Boxing Club have decided to hold an open night on Saturday, March 19, in the Gymnasium. This is an entirely new departure and let us hope that the due support will be forthcoming. It would indeed be "a feather in the cap" of Old McGill to see a candidate wearing the red and white step into the ring to battle for the amateur championship. Win or lose we would still have the satisfaction of knowing we are represented, and McGill representatives are usually somewhere near the top. Of course, there will be a small admission fee, but the committee in charge feel assured that they are only justified in doing so as the Club was organized under difficulty and expenses have been borne by individuals, not by the College.

As is well known the Football Club have a small deficit to make up, caused by the expenses of the season. An attempt to raise the amount by subscription was a failure, and the Club were hard pressed to know what to do. At length the decision to hold a concert was reached and the affair takes place in the Royal Victoria College next Friday. Each student should feel a personal responsibility in this. The McGill Football Club lost the championship so dearly won in the season of 1902, but that is no reason why they should lose the support. That the Club are oppressed with this debt is due to the fact that, instead of supporting the team by paying a small admission fee, the majority prefer to walk in on their grounds' tickets and then feel surprised to learn that a deficit should be announced. Now a chance is given when besides aiding the Club you may enjoy probably the best concert of the year. No pains or money has been spared to make the affair a success. The best talent of the city, and what is more, of the College, has been procured. The more of a College element present, the more enjoyable it will prove. We cannot expect our team to win always nor still less can we expect them to win the championship of 1904 without the needful funds to commence the season, so turn out everyone and buy up the tickets and not only buy, but sell them to everyone who can be persuaded to buy. Let each student feel it his personal duty to aid the Football Club.

In last number there was a letter from Athos favouring the return to Faculty System. We are glad to see that someone has taken the other view and replied at some length. It is only fair that we should hear both sides of the question and the columns of the OUTLOOK is the best place to present one's opinion to the College.

To the Editor of the McGill OUTLOOK,

KIND SIR,—A correspondent writing over the signature "Athos," in the last issue of the OUTLOOK, contributed quite a strong appeal for a return to the old Faculty system of student organization. This presentation of the case attracts more than ordinary attention from a supporter of the new order of things, and leads students of the First Year to ask themselves: "Where are we at?" A person could scarcely feel on reading the article that the writer was wholly without prejudice. In replying to it, we are not utterly out of sympathy with Athos' position, but we cannot see eye to eye with him on many points.

Underlying his whole argument there seems to be the rather absurd notion that the students were made for college clubs, and not college clubs and societies for the students. The reason that members of the Faculty give in their almost unanimous support of the new inter-Faculty system is that under it a more wholesome and generous, if less keen spirit, pervades the student body than the old time bitterness that in the last year of the Faculty system was developing into a very obnoxious feature of college life. They evidently reached the conclusion that the best interests of the students were being sacrificed, and that, at any cost, the tendency should be arrested. Nor were they alone in this view. Surely the movement to overturn the old order did not develop in a night, and surely those who captained the revolutionary party among the students were not mere spellbinders or lobbyists as one of Athos' statements would induce his readers to suspect! Students are not noted for giving way before the oratory of a demagogue against all their own convictions, and if they did in that instance, then were those degenerate days indeed!

Early in his article Athos says: "We have given the Faculty system a fair trial"—with the results above mentioned. Can he say as much about our treatment of the present system? We contend not. He is condemning his prisoner before the trial. Three years now has the inter-Faculty organization been trying to live under the most adverse circumstances. Whether or not '05 and '06 have been looking to the Alma Mater Society to furnish a constitution, it is only this session that the latter Society has laid hold of the problem, and up to the present a constitution has not been submitted to the Years. What could any one expect an organization to accomplish without the guidance of either constitution or precedent? If for no other reason we have not been justified in expecting it to do other than blunder along in haphazard, aimless and futile way.

A word about sports. We hear it said that there has been a disastrous falling off of interest in the Inter-Year football contests as compared with the once wild enthusiasm of Medical and Science students when their respective teams fought for supremacy. The fact is too true, but if we seek the main cause, the inference will not be exactly what Athos would have us draw.

During the past two years we are all aware that the Burnside rules, which governed Inter-Year matches, were unknown to the players. They were adopted for experiment as a mere mark of courtesy to Toronto. Few or no practices preliminary to matches were provided, and that the contest fell little short of burlesques gives little cause for surprise or alarm. It is not an exaggeration to say that leaders in football at McGill did not take them seriously, and what wonder if the students did not?

In Athletics, the unusual strength of the present Senior Year introduced a very serious drawback to the best rivalry for the Inter-class Trophy. Such a remarkable aggregation of excellence is the very rare exception, and now that its undergraduate sun is about to set, we have every reason to anticipate better things in the immediate future. One-sided as the situation stood there was a splendid strife between the other three Years to avoid the last place.

Since the beginning of the hockey season we have read in more than one issue of the OUTLOOK the report that this has been the most encouraging year in the history of the College rink, as far as the various matches and the general interest in the game is concerned.

Deficits in College Clubs' finances seem to be Athos' best foot; he puts them forward. We who attended the Annual Meeting of McG. U. A. A. a few weeks ago listened to a very gratifying financial report. After having to entertain the Toronto team—and that in a more princely fashion than heretofore—and furnish all the medals, a magnificent balance of ninety dollars remained. In football the tale is not so pleasant; but that the cause for a deficit should be foisted on the new Inter-Faculty system is very much like making a scapegoat of the institution. It is a common joke for the writer of the "Herald Sieve" to charge the conservatives with attributing all sorts of natural disasters and climatic severities to the Laurier tariff, but we hope Athos is not emulating the example of the Herald joker in trying to lay the result of bad weather and unfortunate management at the door of this Society. The "Golden Age" was ever in the past, so would it seem to be with Athos.

Not to prolong the argument unduly we would respectfully ask Athos to ponder the financial and other success of student affairs at Cornell and Harvard where the Inter-Faculty Year has long been in vogue. Because no person has been zealous enough in the interests of the organization here to give it a chance for its life, does Athos counsel return to an out-worn system that came under the ban of Faculty and students so recently as three years ago? Does he wish to bring us again under the narrowing influence of Faculty, of which we are sure to have enough? We are just as anxious as Athos to glorify "Old McGill," and make her worthy of the very appropriate title, "Premier University of Canada," but we would seek to do so in accordance with the broadest principles of culture, and respecting Athos' opinions, as we hope he will ours, will only join in the overthrow of present institutions when we agree that they have been given a thorough test and have been found wanting.—Anti-Athos.

IMPRESSIONS OF A HOSPITAL.

Ever since last September there have been at least two McGill men in the hospital at the same time, and never before have so many spent part of the winter term there. For the benefit of these, and for the instruction of the others are the things which follow.

First, as to the grub, my son, avoid these two with all thy might; the hospital and the jail. If, however, thou hast a choice, avoid the hospital. A Chinese cook once made tea in an iron pot, and when he was through he called it pink tea. Chemists say that the tannic tea acts on the ferrous pot in a highly unique manner. Tea made in this way does not shatter the nerves, nor impair the intellect, nor ruin the digestion. In this it is superior to common tea. Pink tea is used in hospitals. If you haven't a ferrous pot, dip a ferrous dinner knife in your cup and you will get it. The word pink, however, is misleading. An artist chap called on us one day, and in expectation of his visit we saved some from dinner, and asked him to name the colour. He said he hadn't studied far enough yet, and didn't know, but he thought it was probably impressionistic tea.

The establishment supports a barber, who for 10 cents shaves Jew and Gentile with the same pot of suds. However, for a quarter he will cleanse his dishes and things, and say Sir like the regular down-town animal. His method is to insert 2 fingers in the mouth, and the rest in the ear, cut open the lip and throat and then let the victim survey himself with pride before a 1 by 1 1-2 inch piece of glass. He is not held in great repute among the patients.

The first night is full of many strange sensations; the gray light through the long narrow windows; the funny shadows of the nurse; the solemn six-foot rubber plant; and the obstreperous snoring of 30 strong-lunged farmers, lumbermen, and grocers; the snoring of men who have never been taught to conceal their feelings; snores rivalling in their register the jolly French horn, the discontented trombone, the dreadful bass.

Then the moon comes up, and shines so brightly on the waxed floor that the windows grow to twice their length, or rather to the square root of the sum of the squares of the window and its reflection. And then you fall asleep, and dream you are where you expect to go to, and all is lost save for the nodding rubber plant and the music of the devils.

Taking ether is rather a change from everyday life. One is balanced on a four-foot board and wheeled through endless green tunnels into a room where tired little nurses dressed in stained smocks smile upon you with feeble smiles. Then the anaesthetist rests the point of his elbow on your chest, presses heavily on your eyes, and sets the ether cone.

"Why do you press on the eyes?" you ask.

"To protect your hair," he murmurs with the air of one who has made the same joke hundreds of times before.

Then comes the drowse; it comes suddenly as after rapidly absorbed Coughburger. Mounted on a five-wheeled go-cart of beautiful design, one flies rapidly upside down toward the seventh heaven, and the rattle of the wheels is as the churning of the trucks under a 60-mile express, until a brown three and a half pointed star appears, rapidly grows large enough to obstruct the path and lands squarely on the forehead with a stunning blow.

* * * * *

A few seconds later the patient awakens in a world of white, sings a hymn, swears with fluency, or makes love to the nurses, according to his habits and disposition. It is said that if the patient resolves beforehand to keep the mouth hermetically sealed, he is all right; otherwise he unvariably becomes one or two of the many kinds of fool he is capable of becoming.

Then after another snooze comes a period of intense mental activity; the patient thinks up the most astonishingly clever things; only he can't remember what they are; he will certainly write a book on them when the fog clears up a little.

And then the utter futility of all things begins to pall on him, especially the top of that infernal rubber plant nodding over the curtains; and sleep is the only thing worth living for.

On toward midnight you get thoroughly awake, and a heavy-footed orderly, a Cockney of the deepest dye, stumps across the horizon.

"Orderly, will you get me a pillow? I haven't any."

"Nao, I cawn't do thaht."

"Well, will you get me a drink?"

"Nao, I shawn't alloaw you to drink."

"Well, will you get me a blanket; I'm cold."

"Nao, you're all right withaht a blynket."

"Well, will you call the nurse?"

"Nor, I shawn't do thaht."

Then you freely explain to that orderly your opinion on his parents and early training and give data as to his personal appearance, private history and probable future home.

The idiot, of course, reports you to the nurse.

The which is what you particularly desired.

Perhaps during your convalescence a "beautiful case," as the nurses call it, comes into the ward, and there is a desperate operation. Immediately after the male relatives, drunk up to the handle, come in to see Jacques. They are proud to have him in the family, and have been celebrating.

The nurse is very kind; "Tell him," she says, "that he is very sick, and had better telegraph for his wife." So the relative turns to the patient and says in a cheerful voice, "Elle cray ben que vous allez m'rir, Jacques!"

* * * * *

Then the lights go out—all except the one behind the screens. All night the doctor and nurse work over him, and all night the funny shadows hop around the ceiling.

Then that light is turned off too, and behind the screens a sheet is laid across the face.

The nurses aren't in the least like Kipling's. "The piteous noble laughter, and the glory in their eyes."

They're too busy for that sort of thing. The College man, bent on wide experience, may possibly know several types of womankind,—the Girls at Home, the Conversat Girl, the Donalda, and the Girls he Calls on. To these, if he has not already done so, let him speedily add the Undergraduate Hospital Nurse.

They will tell you themselves that nursing is very fascinating. The Meds. and others who know them likewise agree that nurses are very fascinating.

Little tin gods forbid that our humble pen should ink their praises where Kipling and Caine have failed. But doth is not stand to reason that a girl who can work hard for ten or twelve hours a day, study two more, attend a lecture, go for a skate (in the rink), have a feed of pickles and Roquefort, and then be able to make jokes at 7 o'clock next morning, doth it not stand to reason that this is a girl to know?

MCGILL GLEE AND BANJO CLUB.

An Entirely Successful Concert.

The most successful season that the Glee and Banjo Club has seen for a number of years was brought to a close on Friday evening last by the annual concert in Karn Hall. The audience was not as large as it should have been. The enthusiasm and energy that the members of the Club have shown this year deserve the greatest praise, and it is regrettable that McGill men have not shown their appreciation of the Club's work more than they have done. This year's concert was excellent in every way. Unlike those of previous years, there was not a number on the programme that was not executed by McGill men. No outside talent was relied upon for the main part of the concert, as has often been the case in the past, and the result was a "howling success."

Almost every member was encored, and the audience went home satisfied, and feeling that they had seen what they came to see, a McGill concert by McGill men.

The music chosen was, on the whole, the only improvement that might have been made, being the selection of songs. Both Mr. Waterman and Mr. Robertson came in for a large share of applause, which would probably have been even greater if the songs had not been quite so serious. All the numbers rendered by the Glee and Banjo Club were greatly applauded, their chief hits being "Bedelia" and "Any Rags." The intervals of vaudeville provided by Mr. Clifton H. Wright and Mr. J. G. Hindley would have done credit to a New York summer garden.

Mr. Wright, dressed in the costume of his native land, sang the touching lyric "Topsy Turvy," accompanied by a graceful West Indian ballet dance. After the house had subsided, Mr. Wright threw it into further convulsions by a spirited interpretation of the one man Olio farce, entitled "Love-making in Jamaica," composed by himself.

Mr. Hindley's little "Stunt," as it was entitled, if possible, surpassed, in mirth making, the performance of Mr. Wright.

Mr. Hindley kept up such a running fire of sparkling wit, intermingled with selections from the gramophone (which were due to his having swallowed some wax "Records" which he had mistaken for something "soft" at Richmond), that the audience were quite exhausted from laughter and greeted with welcome the more classical piece which followed by the Glee Club.

From the lighter "hits" of the evening Mr. Bob Chambers' name must not be omitted. His whistling of Bedelia showed him to be an entertainer of the first water, but it scarcely prepared the audience for what was to follow in "Any Rags." Graceful ballets and humorous step-dances have been seen at times on the Academy and other stages in the city, but it is doubtful if anything to compare with the combined lope and prance, the delicate steps and contortional evolution that Mr. Chambers performed while his strong and manly voice gave tune to the words of "Any Rags, any bones, any bottles for sale," has ever before been witnessed by a Montreal audience.

Whether "funny" or classical every item on the programme was thoroughly enjoyed, and the evening's entertainment was brought to a close by a small dance, to which the members of the audience were kindly invited by the Glee Club to remain.

The programme was as follows:—

HARMONICS.

Where did Clifton learn it all?

The decorations were O.K.

"Isn't Mr. L——b just sweet," said a fair voice from the 75 cent seats.

"Do they all look like that in the West Indies?" coed '07, as "You've got to get up to get down" died away.

Max had quite the Kubelik curve on.

"Is that what they call a houtchy er-polka," said a voice as Bob's coat-tails flicked the walls.

Why didn't they stay?

"I'm on the troil! I'm on the troil!!" was irresistibly called up by Bobs cavortings.

And the Donaldas went home.

What the West Indian stage has missed!

OLD MCGILL, 1905.Issue to Appear Shortly.

It is now time to give warning that the "Annual" will soon be out. Neither time nor money has been spared to make it of the greatest possible interest to Undergraduates, Graduates and friends of the University. Not only from the artistic standpoint alone does it promise to be the best that has yet been attempted in this direction. The drawings and all the work in it are the productions of the students. The contents may be roughly classified. There comes first of all the history of McGill in brief and sketches of new professors. "Roasts" and half tone engravings of all members of the Graduating Classes in Arts, Medicine, Applied Science, Law and Royal Victoria College, Literary contributions from the shining lights of the University. By far the most interesting are the art drawings, cartoons, and caricature illustrations of both the serious and lighter sides of College life. The main body of portraits consist of pictures of College teams and organizations.

The price of this volume, which will shortly be issued, will be $2.00. The Committee have taken considerable financial risk and rely on the students of all Years to give them their support. All who have not subscribed should communicate with members of the Committee, or the Chairman, H. H. Pinch, Sci., or the Treasurer, A. Cumming, Med.

AthleticsBASKET-BALL.*Juniors Defeat Seniors—Freshmen and Sophomores Tie for the McKenzie Cup.

The basket-ball season is now nearly over, but the interest, instead of decreasing, is growing greater at every game. Until Saturday, the Freshmen had not a defeat to their credit, and then the Sophomores got after their scalps in one of the best games of the year. This has been the most successful season that the College has ever known at the Gymnasium.

There are a large number of candidates for all the teams, and there is keen rivalry between the Years. The standing of the team now is:—

	Won.	Lost.	To Play.
Seniors,	1	5	0
Juniors,	1	5	0
Sophomores,	5	1	0
Freshmen,	5	1	0

The championship now rests between Freshmen and Sophomores, and the final game will be next Saturday, at 3.30. Let every one be on hand, and let us hear some old time rooting.

The game between Seniors and Juniors on Monday, which was one of the fastest in the series, ended in favour of Juniors, 27—15.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Seniors.	Juniors.
Kemp Back..	Rabinovitch
Harvey.. . . Back..	Findlay
Cole.. . . . Centre..	Chisholm
Lawrence . . . Forward..	McDermott
Drysdale . . . Forward..	Stewart

Referee—Higgins.

Umpire—Schenkle.

The last scheduled game of the season was played Saturday afternoon. Every one thought it would be the best and hardest game of the season. The Freshmen had won every match they played. The Sophomores all but the first one against the Freshies, which they lost by a very small margin. Play opened and a very fast article was put up by both teams, but from the start it was evident that the Freshmen were not in it. They were outclassed in shooting and combination work generally. At half time the score stood 17—0 in favour of the Second Year. Wright was too ill to play any more and went off, having put up a determined fight; but the "grippe" was too much for him. He was replaced by McDougall. The second half was also to the Sophomores' credit, although the Freshies livered things up a bit by scoring 4 baskets in rapid succession, but the spasm wore off and the game ended 34—14 for the Second Year.

Mr. W. M. Edwards made a capital referee.

Teams lined up as follows:

Second Year (34).	First Year (14).
A. Ross.. . . Home..	P. Wright
D. Ross.. . . Home..	F. Shenkle
B. Higgins.. . Centre..	E. Locke

O. B. Keddy.. Defence.. C. Oliver
A. McMeekin....Defence .. C. Davis
Referee—W. M. Edwards.

Umpires—W. Stewart, Charles M. McKergow.

GYMNASIUM NOTES.

The representative from the Boxing Club, who will go to Ottawa, to box for the heavy weight (amateur) at Ottawa, is Ogilvie. Such is a rumour which is making the rounds in athletic circles.

Unfortunately, the attendance at the Classes is showing a marked decrease. All through the season the Gym. has been unusually well patronized. The close approach of the Exams. are the cause of this, but, nevertheless, the instructor and officials of the Gym. can look back on the season of 1903-4, as the best in its history. With the encouragement shown this year, it ought to be an incentive to any movement as getting the long-talked of "New Gym."

As yet, nothing definite has been learned regarding the scheme to hold a closing exhibition. It is probable, however, that Exams. will interfere with it. The Football Concert, too, will, in a large measure, interfere.

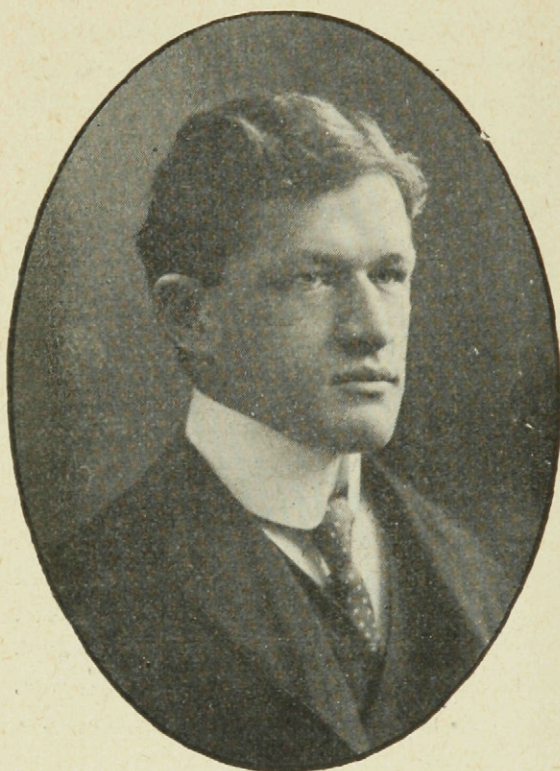

THE FOOTBALL CAPTAIN OF 1904.

The election of Alfie Hamilton to the Football Captaincy has been received with open delight by all those who are acquainted with his past record. Delight, because of two reasons. First, that the College has done a good thing for itself; and, secondly, that Alfie deserves what he has got.

To new arrivals, or those few who have not yet heard of Hamilton, it may be well to present some salient features and facts of his remarkable history.

As a child he was used to bawl; later, he became used to football. The nursery was frequently the scene of fearful struggles, in which Alfy proved himself an adept at tackling low, bucking, kicking, yelling and all other qualities which go to make up a good football player. The one difficulty was that the family didn't consider this "playing," so that Alf. often suffered defeat. From the nursery he was promoted to the streets, where, with his "gang," he soon became the terror of the neighbourhood.

ALFRED HAMILTON.

Chasing policemen and Chinese laundries, having hardened his muscles and steadied his nerve, he was soon fit to enter the Montreal High School. Here he was further hardened and got more and more nerve. When he didn't happen to be wrapped in his studies, he could generally be found digging round the Old Shamrock Grounds, getting the elements of footer down cold.

Soon he was called upon to enter public life as an honoured member of the scrub fifteen, but since he showed himself so ready and dangerous a fighter, it was not long before he sailed into the first team. This was in 1897. In 1898 he was again there, still more covered with honours and bruises. Next year 1899, he had his picture taken holding the championship ball—as captain of the finest school team in the country.

This honour prepared his way for College, so that in the autumn of 1900 he took his rightful place on the half-back line of the second team. In 1901 he went full-back for the first, and decorated his chest with a big M.

By this time Alfy was famous. Even Tom began to take notice, and Jim would insist upon a lubricating rub-down after every game.

In 1902 he won greater names for himself than ever before. As right half he was called "all right Alfy."

When Mohr was looking for his best half, he spotted Alfy, and Alfy came up to a scratch. So in 1903 he again held down the right-hand side of the half line, where he did the best work that McGill students have witnessed in many years. Nothing was too big for him to tackle, and he never failed to nail anything that came within fifteen yards of him.

It is no wonder then that McGill students take a brace and regain their confidence in the ability of their team to trim our rival Universities when they hear that Alfy has been elected captain for 1904.

There is no doubt that Alfy knows everything about every department of the game, and in addition to that, he is always the coolest man on the field, the surest catch and a corking tackler.

But we must beware of flattering poor Alfred. He gets a swelled head so often from other causes that it would be the height of cruelty to give him another at this time of the year.

However, in order that all may know him next year, look out for a little man with a big face-guard, a slight stoop in his shoulders, two dainty legs and some long, straight hair. Watch him, as he swoops about the field pulling down the heaviest men, catching the highest punts, returning the straightest kicks, ever and always in the right place.

That is our "all right Alf."

BOXING CLUB.

Closing exhibition to be held March 19. The Club intends holding a closing exhibition in the Gymnasium on Saturday March 19, at 8.30 p.m. at which the lightweight, middle-weight and heavy-weight Club Championships will be decided. As a number of members have already signified their intention of taking part, an interesting evening may be looked forward to. This will enable those interested in the sport to see what has been accomplished by Mr. Jacomb in the way of bringing out the talent which has hitherto unfortunately lain dormant among the McGill student body.

It is the intention of the committee if the support of the students warrant it, to be represented in a manner creditable to McGill in the Canadian Amateur Championships to be held in Toronto in the early part of May.

Tickets and further particulars may be obtained from the Committee in charge, i.e., Dr. Tait McKenzie, Mr. W. Muir Edwards, and Mr. Ogilvie, or from Mr. Jacomb at the Gymnasium.

NOTES OF THE COLLEGES.

During the coming summer there will be formed a joint class in practical mining from several eastern universities. These universities will lease a western mine, probably in Colorado, and the students who compose the expedition will work the mine under instructions. The idea is to perform the whole operation of mining, from sinking the first shafts to refining the ore taken out, and undertaking other work of an engineering character.

The expedition will be drawn from the summer schools of the universities and the cost will fall upon these schools. It is expected that a lease extending over a number of years will be taken on the mine, so that several consecutive classes in mining may be instructed at little but the original cost.

The Columbia Fencing Club has a Fencing Club which like our Track Club has annual events with other universities such as Pennsylvania and Yale. We may yet see Old McGill sending a Fencing Club to meet Toronto or Queen's.

The University of Chicago has a Girls' Glee Club. Recently they held a most enjoyable concert in the Gymnasium. The concert was strictly musical and contained none of the features usually perpetrated by men's clubs. There were several solo parts rendered and after the concert there was an old-time dance.

The Gymnasium team from Columbia recently competed with that of Yale. This is an annual event and so far Yale has been successful in landing the honours for two years. The competition includes several classes. Horizontal bar, parallel bars, flying rings, horse and tumbling. There is keen rivalry for places on the team and during the practice hours the Gymnasium looks like an amateur three ring circus.

Pennsylvania commenced training in crew work last month with fifty candidates for the 'Varsity crew.

The Minnesota University has an exceedingly fast Basket-Ball Team. They have a splendid way of getting the support of the fair sex and their escorts. After the game the music is turned on and every one has an opportunity to try the "light fantastic." But just imagine an informal dance held in our Gym., but cheer up, there's a good time coming.

Faculty members of the University of Chicago have become alarmed at the appearance of a new disease among the students. According to President Harper, the disease is "mind wandering" and is akin to insanity. Four men and four women have already suffered from this peculiar malady and have left the University. The thing has become so serious that President Harper recently made it a subject for an address of warning to the students of the Junior Class.—Wisconsin Cardinal.

The Sophomores and Freshmen had a little argument about a piece of fence on the Yale Campus Monday morning, which was interesting while it lasted. Monday was Washington's birthday, and tradition says it must be celebrated. Some years ago it was celebrated with such destructive force the Faculty took away the holiday and now prosaic work deadens the enthusiasm. The day is celebrated at Yale in various ways. No one ever knows how it will go and each year it goes differently. Sometimes it is a running snowball fight, sometimes a fence rush, sometimes both. Two or three years ago snow was scarce, and oranges, from a convenient cart, were used with great effect. This year there was plenty of snow and a night's warm rain made it pack beautifully, but, singularly enough, there was very little throwing at any time of the day either on or off the Campus.

"The Torontonensis," 1904, published by the Graduating Year, will soon appear. It promises to be the "best yet," as the management assure every one who enquires. Unlike Old McGill, it is the work of the Fourth Year.

A school of matrimony is the purpose of a bill recently introduced in the House of the Iowa Legislature by a prominent physician of the State. If the bill goes through, the new chair will be added to the University of Iowa. It provides for the appointment by the governor a Director of Marriage Instruction at a salary of $2,000 a year. A further sum of $3,000 will be appropriated for "incidental expenses." The incidental expenses may include all settlements of damage suits arising from instruction in the new department, and will probably be stretched to include alimony, if, after taking a course in marriage, the student finds his affinity incompatible. The students will be given a marriage license immediately after receiving the diploma.

About the College.

HISTORICAL CLUB.

Papers on American Subjects.— Elections.

The last meeting of this Society was held on Thursday, Mar. 4, in the usual place. President Papineau occupied the chair. After the reading of the minutes, and the election of several new members from the first three years, a paper was read by Mr. Hindley, Arts '04, on "The Populists in the U. S." This party arose in the West and South, which were accustomed, especially the former, to depend largely on the Government and on public institutions. The West felt heavily the burden of debt caused by the wild speculation and rush of settlers to unclaimed lands which followed the Civil War. Hence arose various societies, the earliest of them the famous "Grangers," whose aim was to secure amelioration of existing circumstances by legislation. These united into one party at the St. Louis convention of 1889, and in 1892 scored heavily in the elections. In 1896 they united with the Democrats, with whom they had many views in common, such as free silver; each party, however, had its own candidate for Vice-President, though both supported Bryan for President. Since then the Populists had largely disappeared. Their last convention was in 1900 and expressed pro-Boer and anti-various things sentiments. It is probable, however, that a return of hard times will bring them out again, possibly as members of the growing Socialist party.

Mr. McGougan, Arts '04, then read a paper, the work of a partial student, Mr. Christie on "The Panama Question." This country has long been a bone of contention, and has enjoyed 53 revolutions. The scheme to cut a canal through it is as old as the unfortunate attempt headed by De Lesseps and his son. Their company, after some higgling, sold its rights to the U. S. in 1902; but negotiations with Columbia, the sovereign state, were broken off by the latter's capacity (Sept., 1903.) Two months later came the revolt of Panama, whose independence was at once recognized by the American government. A treaty was hastily concluded by which the States received practically absolute control of the canal strip, which is 10 miles wide. The idea that the whole revolution was trumped up by the American government can hardly stand in face of Roosevelt's formal denial, but the President's action in so hastily recognizing the independence of Panama is hard to justify. The main line of defence is that this is the only way of securing the peace on the Isthmus which Columbia guaranteed the U. S. by the treaty of 1846. Whatever may be thought of the means, the result is desirable.

After discussion of these papers, the Club adjourned and held the annual meeting. The Treasurer's report showed a small deficit, which was met by a levy on the members. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Mr. Campbell; Vice-President, Mr. Ower; Secretary, Mr. Cross; Treasurer, Mr. Stafford; Committee, Dr. Colby, Messrs. Steeven and Brown.

MEDICAL SOCIETY.

A meeting of the Medical Society was held Friday evening last in the Medical-building. The attendance was large as usual. The feature of the evening was, of course, Dr. Sheperd's most excellent demonstration of skin diseases as shown by the lantern slides. These were highly interesting and held the attention of the audience throughout. This was followed by a paper from R. J. Monahan, Med. '06, on "Beaumont, St. Alexis, and St. Martin," which was well received. The music for the evening was an encored selection by a quartette composed of Messrs. Miller, Richardson, Keddy and Johnson. This is probably one of the last meetings before the Easter Exams and the interest shown there is highly encouraging to the Society.

UNDERGRADUATES' LITERARY SOCIETY.

A rather stormy meeting of the above Society was held last Wednesday evening in the Law Room. The object of the meeting was to vote on the proposed amalgamation with the Undergraduates' Society of Arts, but after two hours of animated discussion, interspersed chiefly by spicy personal allusions and objections, the meeting found itself in very much the same position as when it started.

The opposition, though few in number, made things quite lively for a time. The Arts' men, who formed a large majority of those present, with the exception of one or two, seemed unanimously in favour of the scheme, Adams and Jenkins being the only dissenting members from Arts. The latter made rather a fiery speech, but the effect was somewhat marred by the velocity of his tongue, which was such that the words fell over one another and consequently the audience was unable to catch the full gist of his remarks. However, some one, with keener auditory powers than the reporter, informed him that the speaker was merely expressing his disapproval of the project.

There were four Law men present, and three of them figured rather prominently in the discussion. Mr. Robt. Calder in particular objected most strenuously to the scheme, but, in doing so, he seemed to lose sight of the fact that it was hardly a time to rake up personal animosities. He did not think that Law had been fairly represented on the committee chosen at the last meeting to enquire into the amalgamation scheme. He had apparently taken a week to discover this, for the personnel of the committee had been decided upon at the former meeting held about a week before and any objection of this kind should have been made then. To give any account of what the meeting did would be altogether out of the question. So many points of order, resolutions, motions, etc., were discussed that no one knew exactly where things were. Indeed, so spirited and witty was the dialogue that had it not been for the different surroundings one might at most have imagined himself among the festive crowd on the bleachers at a ball game.

At last, however, the resolution before the house was voted upon. Just then some one discovered that two weeks' notice was necessary before taking the vote, and as only one week's notice had been given, nothing could be done in the matter. But the Chair said there was only a resolution before the house, and so the resolution was carried by a very large majority. The meeting next moved to adjourn, but not before a most unusual and startling event took place. Messrs. Richards and Calder, of Law, finding that they could not run things to suit themselves, decided to resign from the membership of the Society. Having so decided, and probably fearing that they would never be missed, they decided to provide against such a calamity by forcing the attention of the meeting to the fact by walking up and handing in their resignations. These resignations caused great consternation in the ranks of the Literary executive; who are now wondering how the Society will continue to exist without these two valuable members.

Query:—How can you resign from a now defunct Society?

THE UNDERGRADUATE SOCIETY FAVOURS AMALGAMATION IN MEETING.

On Friday a well attended meeting of the Arts' Undergraduate Society met in the English Lecture-Room, for the purpose of voting on the all important question of amalgamation, which has been so much discussed recently. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mr. Archibald. The minutes and the form of motion resolved on at the last meeting were read. Then Mr. Sheldon rose and put forth the question at some length. There was also a short discussion and then he placed the question in a most favourable light making his motion to the effect, that a dollar should be collected from each student at the Bursar's office, whether or no the amalgamation should be forthcoming. The roll of members was then called, each voting 'Aye or Nay and the "Ayes" were by far in the majority. The meeting hastily adjourned for lunch.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Dean Bosworth of Oberlin.

Dean Bosworth of Oberlin College comes to McGill on Sunday the 13th inst. Prof. Bosworth is a graduate of Yale and Oberlin and studied in Leipsic University and in Athens during 1891-1892. He is not the kind of a speaker to appeal to a popular audience, but one who by his quiet and yet forcible manner is very attractive to students wherever he speaks. At the Northfield Student Conference for the past number of years Prof. Bosworth has been one of the foremost speakers. He is the author of a number of books and as a scholar ranks high.

By special arrangement Prof. Bosworth is coming to McGill to speak on a topic of universal interest. He will speak on how to decide life work.

The meeting will be held in the Redpath Museum at 3 o'clock. The opportunity of hearing Dean Bosworth should be taken advantage of by a large number of men.

Employment Bureau.

The Young Men's Christian Association of McGill is planning to carry on an Employment Bureau this year. All students who are desirous of obtaining work for the summer through this Bureau are requested to call at the Association Office and fill in an application blank.

NOTICE.

The OUTLOOK begs to call the attention to the fact that nominations or application for membership on the Board will now be received, so that work may be resumed without difficulty next session.—Editor.

EXCHANGES.

It Floats.

T. Eller—"I bet the Japs clean up the Russians."

H. Eller—"They can stand it."—Ex.

Oh Fudge.

Freshie—"Not prepared! I have a bad cold in my head."

Prof—"Glad to see you have something there."

Not Serious.

"Why do you frown?" I heard him say;

"You're angry now, I know."

"Oh not at all," the maid replied;

"But a—please step off my toe."

—Punch Bowl.

"Just to think of it!" she said proudly, as the voice of her son rose above the others in the College yell, "Sam and all those other boys conversing in Greek just as natural and easy as if it was their native tongue."

AN ASPIRING LAY.

A young lady sang in the choir—
Her voice rose higher and hoir
Till one starry night
It rose out of sight
And was found the next morn. on the spoir.

—Harvard Lampoon.

IN THE OUTDOOR.

"Doctor I am just dying to get out."
"I guess it won't be long."

HARD FACTS.

"Gather ye Rosebuds while ye may"
May suit a Cyrenaic lay.
An easy optimistic tone
Suggests the flowers around you strewn,

But when you have a class at nine,
When day breaks in a drizzle fine,
You somehow lose the roses' scent,
And wonder what the poet meant,
You stretch your hands the flowers to pull,

Then call the Hedonist a fool.

There's something fills the soul with plenty,

In "Come kiss me, Sweet and Twenty."
What though Youth and Time be fleeting?

"Journeys end in lovers' meeting."

Surely wiser words were never Spoken by the good and clever.

But alas for proffered joy!

Sweet and twenty still is coy;

Truth will rend the flimsy tissue,

Sweet and Twenty will not kiss you!

—The Student.

"How do I look jumping with these things on?" asked the novice at snowshoeing as he leaped from the top rail of the fence into the drift, where he struck head first.

"Out of sight!" said his fair companion, with a smile, as she gazed at the hole in the snow.

Mary had a little lamp,
Filled with kerosene,
She went with it to light the fire,
And has not since benzine.

Myrtle Trevillion has mal de mer,
As the boat o'er the billows doth ride,
But this, and her wishes
Concerning the fishes,
She makes a stern effort to hide.

—Punch Bowl.

COLD.

The wintry wind is full of blows,
The ice is full of freeze,
The atmosphere is full of snows
And I—am full of sneeze.

We're waiting patiently for some one to tell us that "Fools Russian where angels fear to tread" or that "Nicholas Secondovich is Russian armies to the frontski!" May be the lunch-counter-manded the order for such a witticism.—

A Soph.—"Oh yes he is a great chap for etiquette."

Rott.—"Is your room small?"

Tenn.—"Well say! Why, we use condensed milk."

CLASS DAY COMMITTEE BEGINS ITS PREPARATIONS.

1904 Closing Exercises to Contain Several New Features.

The 1904 Class Day Committee has held several meetings, and considerable progress has been made in the preparations. The General Committee has divided up the work among five special committees, constituted as follows:—

Printing.—Miss Freeze, W. P. Ogilvie, Law; A. D. Mackenzie, Arts.

Decoration.—Miss Griffin, E. W. Sheldon, Arts; Mr. Ker, Law.

Music.—Miss Dickson, Geo. Shanks, Arts; G. O. MacMurtry, Sci.

Refreshments.—Miss Mackenzie, W. Wilson, Sci.; W. Laurence, Sci.

Invitation and Reception.—Miss Craig, Geo. MacDougal, Sci.; E. MacDougal, Law; F. G. Wickware, Arts.

Mr. Phelan, the general chairman, is also ex-officio a member of all these Committees.

The programme for the exercises, as arranged by a special committee is as follows:—

April 27.—In the afternoon the Class Tree will be planted and the oration delivered on the campus, and immediately after a reception will be held in the Engineering Building.

In the evening, the regular Class Day exercises will be held in the R. V. C. Each section of the Class will have a valedictorian; Arts will supply a poet and Science a historian.

An interesting part of the ceremonies will be the presentation to the University, by the whole Class of 1904, of one of Dr. R. Tait Mackenzie's statuettes, purchased with the surplus from "Old McGill, 04."

On April 28—The Dance will be held in the R. V. C., and Convocation takes place next day.

Everything now points to a most successful Class week, and we have no doubt but that 1904 will bring to a fitting close its Four Years of extraordinary progress and success.

ARTS.

The Reporter recently had a nightmare. It seemed that he wandered through Old McGill, and looked upon his classmates but alack, how changed they were! It would seem that the dreams of certain writers had come true, and that each had been metamorphosed, by some weird process of evolution, into an object representing his ruling passion. Thus, when we looked at what once was our worthy and learned President, we saw what seemed to be a vast tome crowded from cover to cover with the learning of the past, while in pockets on the back thereof were thick packets of papers seemingly of every kind, from dance invitations to Alma Mater communications. From this strange looking object came a voice which said: "All in favour of this motion kindly signify saepilus in nostris harum te roseida mala." Staggered, we glanced towards the place where our Vice-President sat. Alas! naught was left but a geological hammer, from out whose head peered a pair of eyes intent on a diagram of the Silerian coal beds of Booriboola-Gha. Next to him we beheld a phonograph, from whose wide funnel streamed a series of eloquent arguments, tending to prove that some plan or other was in all respects the poorest, most illogical and most ill-conducted ever presented to any student organization. It was only by the inflections of the voice and its peculiar softness that we recognized the manufacturer of our minutes. Turning horror-stricken from these objects, and from a pair of note-books, one on modern languages, the other on anatomy, whose edges were grotesquely tattered into a likeness to our Treasurer's features, we gazed with wonder on a curious and beautiful object, a large and roomy heart, glowing with a generous flame such as is generally associated with Cupid. When from within this symbol of deep affection for the gentler sex, there broke a well-known voice computing the arguments of the phonograph, we recognized one who once held this office of scribe and said: "Hello, T-l-b-t." Our attention was next called to a plainly bound volume which seemed to have rooted itself to a table near the door of the Library. We were at first unable to recognize it, but on looking closer, we saw that it was entitled: "Life of Count Cavour, with an Appendix on Poetry," and we sighed, "I told McF-r-l-n he would come to this some day." At a little distance lay a soft down pillow, in which we recognized the emblem of the wakeful W-l-k-r. Then a rattling noise struck our ears and we saw a hockey stick, topped by a football rise to greet us. It was only by the beautiful auburn hue of the football's top that we recognized this apparition, which we had not time to examine closely, for a broad grin detached from any visible body like that of the Cheshire Cat, floated before us, and a voice came forth from it saying "Hail, R-se." And we answered fully: "Hello, M-r-sh-ll."

(To be continued if we survive.)

As this is the first time that an Arts '05 report has appeared in the OUTLOOK for two weeks consecutively, it is naturally an occasion of great rejoicing. As we promised in the last number, the Classional Anthem is continued below, and two more members of our honoured Class will be transported with delight when they see their names in print, especially in the columns of the OUTLOOK.

Another week "has went" and we are seven days nearer the blooming exams, those awful exams. It is bad enough to have to do your work regularly, but when it comes to hear "see me at the close of the Lecture," it comes very nearly being the last straw. In our Year's work we get either half value for a written or the interview afterward. Now as the miserable mortal whose duty it is to report the doings of this illustrious Year was prowling around, he overheard the following. Question—"Who did this composition?" Reply—"My father sir." Question—"Any other aid?" Reply—"Oh yes I helped him." No, it was not Greggaw, because he asked if this was personal.

Many are the anxious enquiries concerning Clip's health since the closing down of the rink. His propensities for trading can no longer be indulged in. Perhaps the last night of fussing had something to do with it. Some one asked him if Miss—was short. "Short!" said Clip, "why she was so short that I froze my ear that was nearest to her, going home." Since then he writes poems, and a few will be printed soon if he survives.

It is rumoured that the Health Food people are after Daffy's photo, illustrating the smile that won't come off. How did they come to choose him?

An effort will be made to secure for publication in this column some of the courts of love essays. Some of them are personal experiences and will, no doubt, prove interesting. Watch the next number and (continued in our next.)

1907.

"Hoot mon! but yon's a braw place where a Penny's aye guid for a quarter" chortled the ticket-seller as he marked his next victim. Copyright W.F.S. All rights reserved.

Sam and Teddy began a game of chess in the Molson Hall two weeks ago last Tuesday; we hope to secure the result for our next.

Last Thursday the "pets" gave the High School "hopefuls" a practical demonstration of hockey as she is played and gathered another scalp. Considering the state of the alleged ice and the fact that the Arts' goal-tender played in a yachting suit, the play was fast. Traces of combination were sometimes discernible, but for the most part it looked like Eliza crossing the Ohio whenever a forward came down the slush, generally with an Arts' man in the principal role. The game ended without any fatalities amid cheers from the Arts' Supporter and discomfited howls by the School backers.

That rush meeting last week called forth some very pyrotechnical oratory from rather unexpected sources. The '07 Chrysostom opened with the following:—"Gentlemen (loud shouts of 'we are') my altruistic soul arises within me and compels me to elaborate upon my righteous attitude in this matter of paramount importance to every man here to-day. I contend that this enervating exhibition of effervescence is absolutely incompatible with the lofty demeanor looked for by an expectant public from the future Tartes and Goldwin Smiths (cheers) of this glorious realm." When the tumultuous silence had subsided El-t arose and separated himself from these sapient remarks:—"Gentlemen and Mr. President, it is my opinion that this brutal strife should be replaced by single combat, say with feather dust-ers in a dark room, or loaded boot-jacks at half a mile. On G-ld's stating that such an informal and inelegant proceeding as a rush was extremely infra dig, Ch-rch-ll arose in wrath to reply, but only got as far as "When I was a boy at Cornell" when the arrival of Custos Rotulorum Sh-ld-n cut short the reminiscence, and the meeting closed.

therein being only 110 would be insufficient to break down the resistance interspersed by the intervening air and the amperage thus falling to a minimum, by calculus $aV + aT = aR + I$ and the lights would thus be extinguished.

Excitement reached its height last week when we were calmly informed that we had drawn upon us the thunder of the gods and in consequence would be relieved of five plunks in cold cash. Someone has said that to assail a man through his pocket or by his religion is sure to bring dire results. We are not sure about the latter as regards this Class, but most assuredly does the first statement hold good. However, through the efforts of the efficient committee appointed by the Class, we are in a fair way towards having the fine remitted.

SCIENCE.

Quite a stir was created around College last week over the announcement that someone had cut the electric wires leading to the Molson Hall, and thus deprived the Freshmen and their phalanx of patron saints—the Professors—of that necessary element light, in this case the one that failed. Suspicion, to a few knowing ones, immediately centred upon the "Deacon" as being the guilty party. Upon being interviewed by your Reporter he told the following story of the affair:—"After the beautiful mess we made of that first Freshman Skating party, I thought a little 'quiet' fun this time would be equally appropriate. My experiments in the Physical Lab. furnished me with material wherewith to act. I knew that by cutting one of the wires carrying the current and separating the ends thus cut, the voltage

Notable among the doings of the past week was Gr-n-d's speech before the Faculty on "Prohibition" or "Dry Dinners and How to Run One."

"There has been an investigation," said the professor in a solmen tone, "about the cutting of the light wires. We had nothing to work on, but now we are certain that the wires were cut, probably by someone with a pair of shears."

MEDICINE.

We held a most enthusiastic meeting last week of an hour's duration and the work accomplished was absolutely nothing.

Incidentally we discovered that A. L. Johnson knows the rules of order better than any man in the class; that Le Baron is a capital hair-splitter; and that MacNab has a determined and stirring manner in making motions.

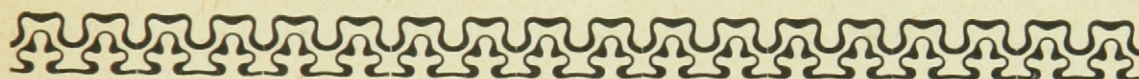

The tremendous responsibility which our President took upon himself in ruling from the Chair must have weighed heavily upon him.

We all sympathized with our Secretary in his earnest endeavours to record the motions, the amendments and the amendments to the amendments. They were very important and we trust he has them all carefully reviewed and corrected. Everything about the meeting clearly proved that the vast amount of learning we have acquired has in no way lessened our ability for carrying on the practical things of life.

A great deal of interest was aroused on February the 29th when it was discovered that a member of our Class was that day celebrating his fourth birthday. He looked unconcerned with the novelty of the occasion and had little to say when interviewed by your reporter. He will be still four birthdays old when he graduates, and we wish our young Classmate every success.

We advise Mr. O-lt-n to be more careful where he burns his correspon-

The Histology Class should be less frivolous. Girls are not for hours of work.

Perhaps the most enthusiastic worker among us is "Mickey." So forgetful is he of his surroundings that he often falls off his stool, drawing the attention of hundreds of men to him. We would encourage this spirit of earnestness, so rarely seen in our or any class, but then it were better if he could remain seated.

Why was Blanchard home? We have heard a reason. Congratulations, old man!

We take this opportunity to thank Drs. Robertson and Gordon for a very interesting and instructive demonstration on blood pressure.

More pulses have been counted in the last week than there is any record of.

More worry and more heart troubles have been discovered than we ever dreamed existed. One man doubled his age by counting his pulse. If someone will remember to count his pulse before and after the final in Anatomy it will be of great interest to us all.

The number of cards lost this year in the Dissecting-Room has never been equaled. There is a rumour that next year a fine of $2.00 will be required for duplicates.

If your right hand offend thee cut it off. We believe we offended the OUTLOOK board, and of course with so much to fill the columns of our College paper they were quite justified in cutting us off. Your reporter has a great number of undelivered OUTLOOKS. Why does the enthusiasm in our College paper diminish? Perhaps because we are still clinging to the old Faculty feeling and are more interested in our own affairs than in those of our sister Faculties. The OUTLOOK should endeavour to overcome this.

The Royal Military College.

THERE are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College at Kingston. At the same time its object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public.

The College is a Government institution, designed primarily for the purpose of giving the highest technical instructions in all branches of military science to cadets and officers of Canadian Militia. In fact it is intended to take the place in Canada of the English Woolwich and Sandhurst and the American West Point.

The Commandant and military instructors are all officers on the active list of the Imperial army, lent for the purpose, and in addition there is a complete staff of professors for the civil subjects which form such a large proportion of the College course.

Whilst the College is organized on a strictly military basis the cadets receive in addition to their military studies a thoroughly practical, scientific and sound training in all subjects that are essential to a high and general modern education.

The course in mathematics is very complete and a thorough grounding is given in the subjects of Civil Engineering, Civil and Hydrographic Surveying, Physics, Chemistry, French and English.

The object of the College course is thus to give the cadets a training which shall thoroughly equip them for either a military or civil career.

The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the system. As a result of it young men acquire habits of obedience and self-control and consequently of self-reliance and command, as well as experience in controlling and handling their fellows.

In addition the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercises of all kinds, ensures good health and fine physical condition.

An experienced medical officer is in attendance at the College daily.

Seven commissions in the Imperial regular army are annually awarded as prizes to the cadets.

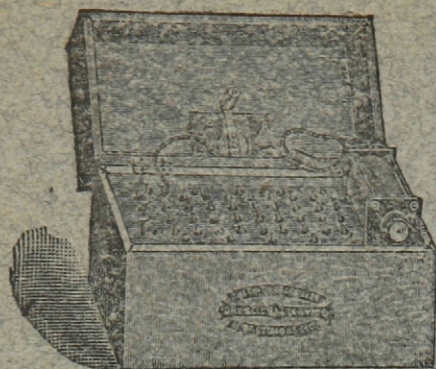

The length of course is three years, in three terms of 9 months' residence each.

The total cost of the three years' course, including board, uniforms, instructional material, and all extras, is from $750 to $800.

The annual competitive examination for admission to the College will take place at the headquarters of the several military districts in which candidates reside, in May of each year.

For full particulars of this examination or for any other information application should be made as soon as possible to the Adjutant General of Militia, Ottawa, Ont.
